Overseas Troops Enjoy Gifts of Angelo's Jerky

For our troops on the ground in Afghanistan and Iraq, a taste of home is fine dining indeed. For more than 2 years, Angelo Ibleto has been sending 2-pound packages of his "World's Best" jerky to servicemen and women overseas.

Angelo collects donations toward the shipments in cookie jars at 2700 Adobe Road in Petaluma and at his Wine Country Deli, 23400 Arnold Drive in Sonoma – but he usually ships more than the collections support. His daughter, Angela Dellinger, packs the jerky and sends the packages to addresses provided by relatives and the post office. Literally hundreds of packages have been sent to date.

"It gives me a good feeling to do it. Somebody came in last week and pointed to one of the pictures on Angelo's bulletin board and said 'That's my son!'"

Do the troops appreciate it? Here are a few messages Angelo has received:

"On behalf of Combined Joint Special Operations Task Force – Arabian Peninsula, thanks for thinking of us. Know that everyone I work with is enjoying your treat."

"We spent Christmas in a remote location and the field rations weren't the most appetizing – but the beef jerky was hands down the best I've had."

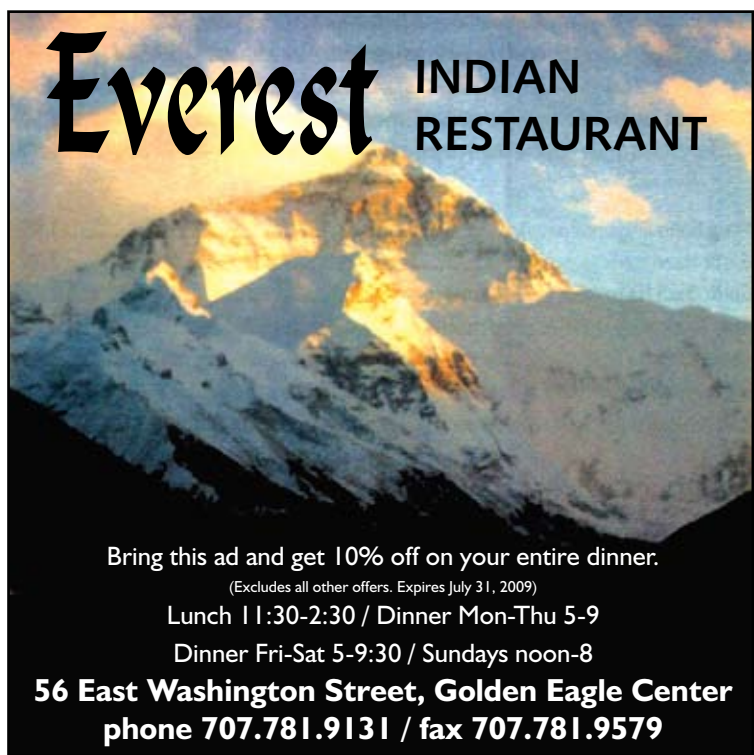

"Beef jerky is a perfect snack for infantry soldiers – high in protein, filling, and not bulky so we can carry it in our pockets. It never expires. Your gift was very much appreciated (and delicious)."

"Never in a million years would I have guessed I'd be sending this much jerky," Angelo says, "or that so many people would care so much about it."
